OK, African Civilizations: An Archaeological Perspective, by Graham Connah, is practically a literal sourcebook. It has dozens of maps of tombs, temples, and villages, as well as pictures of ancient treasure. And the best part of it is, because it details the non-Egyptian civilizations of Africa, this stuff is familiar to exactly NOBODY YOU KNOW.

African Studies Review. In summary, it is remarkable that a single author is still capable of mastering such a mass of archaeological evidence on African civilizations; one suspects that nobody will be in any hurry to follow in Graham Connah's distinguished footsteps. However, one cannot entirely escape the impression that this book,...

The ruins of Gedi are a historical and archaeological site near the Indian Ocean coast of eastern Kenya. The site is adjacent to the town of Gedi (also known as Gede) in the Kilifi District and within the Arabuko-Sokoke Forest. Gedi is one of many medieval Swahili-Arab coastal settlements that stretch from Mogadishu, Somalia to the Zambezi River in Mozambique.

Africa's Great Civilizations. Librarian's Choice "In his new six-hour series, Africa's Great Civilizations, Henry Louis Gates, Jr. takes a new look at the history of Africa, from the birth of humankind to the dawn of the 20th century. This is a breathtaking and personal journey through two hundred thousand years of history, from the origins, on the African continent, of art, writing and ...
