Criminology Theories Typologies Larry Siegel

Criminological schools of thought. In the mid-18th century, criminology arose as social philosophers gave thought to crime and concepts of law. Over time, several schools of thought have developed. There were three main schools of thought in early criminological theory spanning the period from the mid-18th century to the mid-twentieth century: Classical, Positivist, and Chicago.

Delinquent Subculture Theory One of the major functions that these inner city youths do not acquire is middle-class societal norms. Edit. Because these boys do not have the ability to succeed, they resort to a process Cohen calls reaction formation. What this reaction formation means is that the subject reacts with extreme response to situations.
