Introduction "Modern art" is a broad term which refers to art produced during the years 1870-1970. Some historians prefer to limit "modern art" to the 20th century, but, it is more customary to take Impressionism as the starting point, while the 1960s are usually seen as the transition between "modern art" and its successor "postmodernist art".

In 1890, however, Alfred Thayer Mahan's book, The Influence of Sea Power upon History, 1660-1783 was published, examining how the British used the Royal Navy to obtain control of the seas and establish the Pax Britannica dominance that they enjoyed in the 19th century. This inspired several states to invest more seriously in warships than they had previously, most significantly the (Mahan's ...

A silhouette is the image of a person, animal, object or scene represented as a solid shape of a single color, usually black, with its edges matching the outline of the subject. The interior of a silhouette is featureless, and the hole is typically presented on a light background, usually white, or none at all. The silhouette differs from an outline, which depicts the edge of an object in a ...

The History of construction overlaps many other fields like structural engineering and relies on other branches of science like archaeology, history and architecture to investigate how the builders lived and recorded their accomplishments. Those fields allow us to analyse constructed buildings and other structures built since prehistory, the tools used and the different uses of building materials.
