Protectionism is the economic policy of restricting imports from other countries through methods such as tariffs on imported goods, import quotas, and a variety of other government regulations. Proponents claim that protectionist policies shield the producers, businesses, and workers of the import-competing sector in the country from foreign competitors.

2.2.. The gravity model for ex-post assessment of regional trade agreements Initially used by Aitken (1973) as an ex-post assessment for the European Economic Community, the gravity model seems well defined for this issue for two reasons. Firstly, arguably, the model represents a relevant counterfactual to isolate the effects of an RTA.

Trade generates efficiency gains. If we look at country-level data from the last half century we find that there is a correlation between economic growth and trade: countries with higher rates of GDP growth also tend to have higher rates of growth in trade as a share of output.. This basic correlation is shown in the chart below, where we plot average annual change in real GDP per capita ...

ABSTRACT In this paper, we introduce the Intervention Mapping (IM) taxonomy of behaviour change methods and its potential to be developed into a coding taxonomy. That is, although IM and its taxonomy of behaviour change methods are not in fact new, because IM was originally developed as a tool for intervention development, this potential was not immediately apparent.
