Theoretically there is no constraints. However, practically, do not propose a RC beam having a length over 18m. I have had the experiences in some projects to investigate such long RC beam issue ...

Foundation design necessitates two different studies: one deals with the bearing capacity of the soil; the other is concerned with the foundation settlements. Considering that the loads transferred from the superstructure to the foundation are non-uniform, differential settlements between the foundation's elements are expected, which will generate additional forces in the members of the ...

Extreme events (i.e. terrorist attacks, vehicle impacts, explosions, etc.) often cause local damage to building structures and pose a serious threat when one or more vertical load-bearing components fail, leading to the progressive collapse of the entire structure or a large part of it.

Computer use is an integral part of the Civil Engineering curriculum. From required courses in computer programming and numerical analysis to subsequent use and development of Civil Engineering programs, students experience the use of computers as a planning, analysis, design, and managerial tools.
