At the start of a French revision session, take a highlighter to your notes and circle grammar points that you want to revise, or try and organise your vocabulary into topics. I like to think about the different stages of revision. The first is getting your notes ready, organising your files and writing out/typing up vocabulary.

It will have a much smaller component addressing geography papers than the first assessment. However, if you elected to take A-Level OCR Geography then your assessment will be split into four parts. Your first two papers (Physical Systems and then Human Interactions) will each last 1 hour and 30 minutes and count for 22% of your final grade.

Candidates should also focus on the Makkan period, i.e. the first 13 years of revelation. Candidates should mention that the Qur'an was revealed to the Prophet over a period of 23 years, and not as a complete book. After the first revelation, sura al-'alaq, revelation stopped for a period which caused the Prophet to worry.
