1. Introduction. The proliferation of social media created a whole new era for companies and brands, forcing them to seek new interactive ways of reaching and engaging their customers (Gallaughar and Ransbotham, 2010, Kozinets et al., 2010). This quickly expanding marketing channel, which already reaches more than two thirds of all Internet users, provides unparalleled opportunities for brand ...

Consumer behaviour is the study of individuals, groups, or organizations and all the activities associated with the purchase, use and disposal of goods and services, including the consumer's emotional, mental and behavioural responses that precede or follow these activities. Consumer behaviour emerged in the 1940s and 50s as a distinct sub-discipline in the marketing area.

Lately I have been thinking about how much I adored North Wells Street in Chicago's Old Town in my youth. My parents took us to Old Town on occasion and every single trip was imbued with magic. I'm not alone in this adoration - in my research I found quite a few blogs devoted to this unique street.
