A metric space is a set S with a global distance function (the metric g) that, for every two points x, y in S , gives the distance between them as a nonnegative real number $g(x, y)$. A metric space must also satisfy 1. $g(x, y) = 0$ iff $x = y$, 2. $g(x, y) = g(y, x)$, 3. The triangle inequality $g(x, y) + g(y, z) \geq g(x, z)$.

Geometry (from the Ancient Greek: γεωμετρία; geo-"earth", -metron "measurement") is a branch of mathematics concerned with questions of shape, size, relative position of figures, and the properties of space. A mathematician who works in the field of geometry is called a geometer.. Geometry arose independently in a number of early cultures as a practical way for dealing with lengths ...

There are so many topics I'd like to cover. And people seem to love writing emails/comments to make requests. Keep in mind, I will make judgments on what to cover next based on what I think has the best chance of deepening peoples' relationship with math, and what I am personally most excited to describe.

The simplest example of a coordinate system is the identification of points on a line with real numbers using the number line. In this system, an arbitrary point O (the origin) is chosen on a given line. The coordinate of a point P is defined as the signed distance from O to P , where the signed distance is the distance taken as positive or negative depending on which side of the line P lies.
