The framing effect is a cognitive bias where people decide on options based on if the options are presented with positive or negative semantics; e.g. as a loss or as a gain.. People tend to avoid risk when a positive frame is presented but seek risks when a negative frame is presented. Gain and loss are defined in the scenario as descriptions of outcomes (e.g., lives lost or saved, disease ...

Introduction. Learning to be an effective leader is an ongoing endeavor. Indeed, as Bennis (1994, p.1) noted, "people who cannot invent and reinvent themselves must be content with borrowed postures, second-hand ideas, fitting in instead of standing out." Although much has been written about how leaders need to continue honing their skills, the demand for effective leadership at all levels ...
